

January 20, 2012

http://ny.curbed.com/archives/2012/01/20/one57_gets_wavy_glass_waterfall_panels_on_its_facade.php

DEVELOPMENT UPDATE-O-RAMA!

One57 Gets Wavy Glass Waterfall Panels on Its Facade

By Dave Hogarty

Workers are installing some of the first undulating glass panels that will make up the facade over the main entranceways to One57. A tipster sent us a pair of photos that show the panes being lifted into place. The rendering of the front facade (inset), shows how these undulating sections break up the glass curtain wall on the building's lower floors, above the two front entrances. More undulating glass will be used in the canopies over these entranceways, giving the appearance of the glass splashing out towards 57th Street like a waterfall.

