

January 29, 2013

http://ny.curbed.com/archives/2013/01/29/mapping_the_10_best_selling_buildings_of_2012.php

TOP 10S

Mapping The 10 Best Selling Buildings Of 2012

There are plenty of people out there who love to hate on the Edge, but for the second year in a row, the condo was the top selling development in New York City. The good people at Property Shark compiled their annual list of the 10 top-selling buildings, and last year, the Edge sold 167 units, with a median price of $804,418, earning it the top spot once again—in 2011, the building sold 272 units. Obviously, it helps to have a crapload of apartments to sell in order to be the best-selling, but the Edge wasn't the only repeat. In fact, five of the top 10 also made the list last year.

7

THE ALDYN

The Aldyn had a bang up 2012, hosting the Kips Bay Decorator Show House, receiving a dog concierge service, attracting at least one celebrity buyer, and selling 66 units. That's a pretty good follow to 2011, when it was twice featured on Selling New York. What will 2013 bring?

60 RIVERSIDE BLVD,
NEW YORK, NY 10069

WEBSITE

